

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A display unit in a dashboard of a vehicle is provided where the display unit is not visible to the viewing person in an inoperative position and, when its operation is started or for the purpose of being read, the display unit can be brought into an operative position by being swivelled by 180° out of its inoperative position.